Sustainable Practices:

Our treats are 100% sustainably produced because they are one of only a few products manufactured here that actually comes from within Humboldt County.

Products from Humboldt that use Humboldt ingredients are better than products made in Humboldt that use ingredients from elsewhere. For example, other treats on the market contain wheat. No one grows wheat in Humboldt County, so they must get it from somewhere else.

When you buy Heartfelt Foods you can be assured that you are helping the Humboldt economy by supporting locals who use only local ingredients bought at local stores, like the Co-op.

In addition, we use energy efficient production methods & lighting in making our treats & our packaging is recyclable. We also refrain from using any preservatives, hormones, antibiotics, or steroids in our product; which sets us apart from other manufacturers.

We don't compost however, but only because we use 100% of everything used to make our treats during production; even the blood. Heartfelt Foods has zero negative impact on the environment. In addition, using organic & grass-fed beef is a sustainable practice because it really matters where you get your source ingredients.

Organic & grass-fed beef is better because it contains no funky hormones, antibiotics, or weird steroids designed to make cows fatter for slaughter. Bigger cows weigh more, which translates to more money for the rancher who sells their steroid-infested cows to the uninformed consumer.

Manufacturers with low moral standards depend on the public to remain ignorant in order for them to continue padding their profit margin by charging exorbitant prices for sub-par products. Heartfelt Foods is perfect for consumers that are informed about the problems that arise from mass production methods commonly used today. Which is why we make our treats in small batches, it allows us more oversight during production which translates to a higher quality product for the consumer.

Not to mention the added health benefits of using healthier, leaner, cattle. There is absolutely nothing in our product that a person couldn't eat themselves. Made from local human-grade grass-fed ground beef & organic beef heart & liver; Heartfelt Foods is good enough for people to eat, so it has to be a better product for people to buy for their dogs.

And that's why we say that Heartfelt Foods is people food for your pets! Made from 100% meat with nothing weird, Heartfelt Foods is the reason your dog was born with sharp teeth.

Sincerely,

Dave Johnson, Heartfelt Foods
