

Trust Your Source

Warren Creek Farms

Dry Beans
Potatoes
Winter Squash
Pumpkins
Sweet Corn
Mixed Veggies

Trust Your Source

Warren Creek Farms

Grown:

Blue Lake & Arcata Bottoms

(0-4 miles from packaging facility)

Miles Transported:

To Arcata: 2-6

To Eureka: 9-13

Contact Information & Profile at: www.humfarm.org

Paul Giuntoli

Sustainable Practices:

Warren Creek Farm has been growing organically since 1987 and certified organic by CCOF since 1991.

We conserve water and soil through crop rotation, cover cropping and dry farming. Dry farmed plants are more nutritious, store better and conserve water.

At Warren Creek Farms we manage weeds, pests, and diseases by mechanical and manual cultivation, crop rotation, strip grazing, soil testing, fertilizer management and as a last resort, application of organic program approved materials and practices.

Soil fertility is considered after annual soil testing. Green manure crops, compost, micro-nutrients and fallow years are used to maintain fertility and plant health.

At Warren Creek Farms we have a box recycling program. We pay our customers to save our boxes and many of them are used several times over.

Owned By:

Warren Creek Farms is owned by Paul Giuntoli, a third generation Humboldt County Farmer.

He and his wife Carla farm two plots of certified organic land – one on Warren Creek Road between Arcata and Blue Lake, and one in the Arcata Bottoms.

They have been supplying the co-op with potatoes and winter squash for more than 20 years, making them one of our oldest suppliers.